Acknowledgments

I would like to thank Christopher Heim, Howie Romans, Eugene Rivera, Laurence Baird, Rob Timmins, and Daniel Descoteaux for sharing their wisdom and experiences with me. These are the veterans that inspired me to complete this resource guide. You are all veterans but more importantly you are all friends. This resource guide is dedicated to the six of you, your families, and all of our soldiers and veterans.

FOREWORD:

This resource guide was designed to help all returning soldiers from Iraq, Afghanistan, and Veterans from Vietnam, Korea, WWII and their families. I created it to make the process of finding resources and information as easy as possible. I understand that the last thing returning soldiers and their families need is any additional stress. The guide has a designated section for Rhode Island soldiers, veterans, and their families. I designed the resource guide to educate and better inform the general public about what soldiers go through during deployments and the challenges they face when returning home. The vast numbers of soldiers coming back from Iraq and Afghanistan are increasing daily. Also, we must not forget about our Vietnam, Korean, and WWII veterans, as we can learn from them. Our communities, states, and nation need to step up to make sure our veterans and their families are getting the care they need. I encourage civilians to use this guide as a tool to educate yourself. Our military service members have served our country, now it's time to serve our soldiers.

Introduction:

The idea to create this resource guide began in October of 2006. After graduating from high school in June 2002, I headed off to the University of Rhode Island while a very close friend went off to the Marine Corps. He was sent to Afghanistan as part of Operation Enduring Freedom in 2004. I saw first hand how war and combat can change a person. The transition from soldier to civilian proved to be very difficult for him, but I realized he probably wasn't alone.

I wanted to learn more about the war, the effects of combat, and the effects it has on the families back home. More importantly, I wanted to learn how I could help. I started reading books and watching documentaries focusing on the current situations in Iraq and Afghanistan.

As a result I started talking to returning soldiers and their families. I created a group on facebook.com "Healing our Veterans and Families" and began to network with soldiers and families around the world. I was trying to understand the problems that they face when they return from deployments. Everywhere I went, whether it be a bookstore, library, food market, gas station, if I saw a soldier in uniform or veteran, I'd ask them questions, trying to educate myself from their wisdom and experiences.

I started writing about my thoughts and feelings because of the deep level this was affecting me. Over the course of weeks and months I brainstormed how I could help. I looked at our Veteran Affairs Centers around the US and realized they need help. I wanted to bring all the resources in Rhode Island together to provide a united front to help our soldiers coming home. I soon came up with the idea of creating a resource guide full of supportive information from around the country to help soldiers and their families. I started it in October 2006 and here in August 2007, I've finally finished it, at least for now.

Included in this work is information and links for veterans to learn more about what the VA Centers offer and useful information for veterans on how to file claims at their local VA regional offices. There are links to appropriate forms and paperwork that can be printed out before going to VA offices to save time and energy. Information is available to help find support groups for veterans and their families.

I've included links to learn more about combat stress issues that are, and will, continue to be issues our soldiers have to face. Also included are links to short videos on combat stress, PTSD, and trauma. Post Traumatic Stress Disorder has been highlighted in great numbers in our soldiers returning from Iraq and Afghanistan. Families can watch short clips on what to look for when their loved ones come home from deployments. I believe educating the families and having a supportive group available to returning soldiers could help tremendously. A list of books for veterans, their families, and civilians are available that I have read over the past 12 months. All the books that are on the list have been reviewed and put on the list with my recommendation to a veteran or their family.

There are resources and guides for both military personnel and their families. Both returning soldiers and their family have gone through difficult times and require special attention. Reuniting families and forging a bond again between loved ones is an important aspect for our returning soldiers. I have also included a list of employment resources and workshops to help veterans.

Civilians will never be able to feel what it's like to be in war or combat but as a result of my interest and concern I've created a list of documentaries about the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan available with trailers to preview them. It allows a civilian to look beyond their local TV and newspapers. In the back of the guide is a list of all the VA facilities around the country.

This project has been a life changing experience for me. I have met so many great people along the way that inspired me to keep the project going. I realized that simple, small dreams, can come true with the right attitude and motivation. I'm pro-veteran, and I care about the future of our veterans, their families, and our nation. I hope this resource guide can help anyone who has a need for it or wants to learn more. To all our returning soldiers, thank you for your service to our country and welcome home.

Combat Stress Injuries Reference Guide

*“The first signs of stress for many combat veterans appear 3 to 4 months after returning home”
Army Times January 7th, 2005*

Symptoms of Combat Stress:

- Depression
- Anger issues
- Alienation and Isolation
- Sleep disturbances
- Flashbacks
- Poor concentration or lack of concentration
- Negative self image
- Memory impairment
- Loss of interest in things they once loved
- Problems with intimate relationships
- Alcohol and drug problems
- Survivor guilt
- Trust issues
- Suicidal thoughts

Contributors of more severe Combat Stress symptoms:

- Longer period of time in combat
- Negative situations upon returning home
- No support system
- Medics, frontline combat veterans,

Consequences: Leads to acting out anger more often, use avoidance and isolation to cope

Ways to Manage Stress Injuries:

- Talk things out, you can only repress memories for so long until they become unbearable, emotional wounds are like physical wounds, they need to heal, they need to breath before they get better. Find a medical professional to talk to or at least a person you trust and can confide in.
- Write things out, keep a journal, write poems, listen to soft music. Keep a log of how you are feeling
- Engage in physical activity, work out, play sports, keep active and don't sleep all day or isolate yourself
- Avoid alcohol and drugs, it's only a quick fix, talk to a professional if need be. You have to stop drinking or doing drugs before you can heal. It's a self medication and a bad way of coping with things
- Large, busy, places like malls, shopping centers may trigger some sort of anxiety.
Planning and preparing can be the key to success, If you go to the mall don't stay long if you feel uncomfortable, go to the restroom take a break so you can clear your head and relax.

Problems following homecoming:

- The person who you left home who once relied upon you has become capable of managing the household by themselves.
- Decision making on children, household duties, finances and social activities have all been provided by the care taker at home since your deployment
- Veterans may need much of their partner's time which has been allocated to other things while you were gone.
- Problems may present themselves and it will take time to get back on track
- Failed expectations upon homecoming for either veteran or person waiting for them can cause resentment.
- Talk about the expectations with your partner.

Important Self Help Tips when returning home:

- Limit alcohol, caffeine, nicotine, and illegal substances
- Limit news watching or traumatic information
- Talk to peers or professionals
- Get plenty of sleep and rest(Too much rest or fatigue may be sign of Depression)
- Good diet
- Write, Read
- Keep on a schedule
- Listen to relaxing music
- Plan family activities
- Engage in Volunteer work
- Most importantly recognize signs of stress and triggers that set you off

Common Names of Combat Stress/PTSD:

Nostalgia (Civil War)

A Soldiers Heart

Da Costa's Syndrome

Shellshock (World War I)

Combat Fatigue (World War II)

Front Line Views from Soldiers

- The War Tapes

Armed with minicams mounted on their gun turrets, helmets and dashboards, three National Guardsmen capture an unprecedented perspective of the Iraq war in this powerful documentary culled from more than 1,000 hours of footage. Deftly interlaced with harrowing film of ambushes, explosions and severed limbs are the soldiers' complex reactions to the conflict and interviews with the women they left behind.

Trailer-www.thewartapes.com/trailer

- The Ground Truth

Patricia Foulkrod's powerful documentary spotlights American soldiers sharing their experiences on the battlefield in Iraq and back home as they try to reassemble their lives. With aching honesty, these men and women discuss the anguish of war, the difficulties of readjusting to life after their tours of duty, post-traumatic stress disorder and the often callous treatment returning troops receive from the military and the Veterans Administration.

Trailer-www.thegroundtruth.net

- Gunner Palace

Front line view of our troops in Iraq via this engrossing portrait. Director Michael Tucker lived with 2/3 Field Artillery ("The Gunners") for two months and captured the feelings of these soldiers, whose barracks in the most volatile section of Baghdad are the ransacked pleasure palace of Uday Hussein. Tucker's footage provides a rare look at the lives of these soldiers, whether they're swimming in Uday's pool or raiding terrorist lairs.

- Baghdad ER

Filmmakers Jon Alpert and Matthew O'Neill capture the gruesome realities of the conflict in Iraq -- along with the human spirit's resiliency -- in this unsettling HBO documentary. Recorded over a two-month period in 2005, the video follows the U.S. Army's medical personnel at the 86th Combat Support Hospital (inside Baghdad's "Green Zone") as they battle tirelessly to save wounded soldiers ... who just keep coming. Not for the fainthearted.

Trailer-<http://www.freedocumentaries.org/film.php?id=156>

- Operation Dreamland

Following a unit of average soldiers from the 82nd Airborne Division who are stationed near Falluja in a camp they've dubbed "Dreamland," filmmakers Ian Olds and Garrett Scott capture the humanity of conflict through the men and women who live it, taking you into the heart of an unfamiliar country where casualties are high. The result is an eye-opening film with no preconceived agenda that simply tells a story about war.

- Combat Diary - The Marines of Lima Company
From the front lines of the Iraq war comes this gripping documentary featuring dramatic footage taken by the soldiers putting their lives on the line for their country and for the Iraqi people. Centering on an Ohio reserve unit of Marines deployed for a seven-month tour of duty, the film provides personal insights into the physical and emotional casualties of war. Interviews with parents and spouses of the fallen lend added perspective.

- Off to War - From Rural Arkansas to Iraq
Soldiers enlisted to serve in the Arkansas National Guard are closely chronicled from their first deployment to the war in Iraq through the gut-wrenching drama of death and despair within the brigade. This powerful 10-part series filmed by Brent and Craig Renaud presents a gritty firsthand glimpse of the front-line atrocities that every soldier encounters, as well as the stories of the brave families back home.

- Make Peace or Die: The First Days of War in Iraq with 1 Battalion 5 Marines
March 2003 - Thousands of troops are massed on the border of Iraq poised for war. Among the first to cross the line of departure is one of the most decorated units in the American military having served since World War I: First Battalion, Fifth Marine Regiment. The Marine Corps infantry unit known as "1/5" (one-five) carries to battle a flag with its salient motto, "Make Peace or Die."

Iraqi People Perspectives

- Control Room
This documentary peers into the controversial and often dangerous operations of the 7-year-old Al Jazeera news network. Although it often enrages its own people, the news outlet has become the most accepted informational resource in the Arab community. Filmmaker Jehane Noujaim gains extraordinary access to Al Jazeera journalists and examines the risks they confront on a daily basis. Shows how different American news is portrayed and played.
Trailer- <http://www.imdb.com/title/tt0391024/trailers>
- Iraq in Fragments
Honored with an Oscar nod and prizes for editing and cinematography at the 2006 Sundance Film Festival, director James Longley's striking portrait of a nation divided presents a collage of images and commentary from ordinary Iraqi citizens coping with the effects of war, political unrest, religious feuds and an uncertain future. Moving beyond the abstract, the film powerfully captures the indelible humanity of those living in a country defined by conflict.
Trailer- www.ifilm.com/video/2773065
- My Country, My Country
Filmmaker Laura Poitras's fascinating Oscar-nominated documentary provides an inside look at war-torn Iraq from the perspective of a Baghdad citizen. The film follows Dr.

Riyadh, a physician who serves the people in his community both as a health care provider and as an advocate in numerous areas of their lives. A critic of the U.S. occupation, Riyadh nonetheless supports democracy in Iraq and decides to run as a candidate in the tumultuous 2005 elections.

- About Baghdad

See what decades of oppressive rule, poverty and strife have done to the Iraqi city of Baghdad in this fascinating documentary that examines the region through the eyes of Sinan Antoon, an artist who was forced to leave by political and social forces and who now makes his homecoming. The film offers a glimpse of a city not quite in ruins but struggling to regain its footing and find its place and role in an ever-changing world.

Trailer-N/A

- The Dream of Sparrows: Iraq Eye Group: Vol. 1

Iraqi director Hayder Daffar examines life in Baghdad and Fallujah under U.S. occupation in this compelling documentary. Daffar and his crew braved extreme danger to interview a diverse group of Iraqis, from cab drivers to schoolchildren. Iraqi citizens candidly tell their opinions about the war and their hopes for their nation. Footage is unsettling as innocent civilians, and even one of Daffar's crew, are mortally wounded in crossfire.

Returning from Combat

- When I Came Home

Herold Noel, an Iraq War veteran suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder, finds a bitter homecoming in this unflinching documentary. Forced to live in his car because he and his family don't qualify for housing assistance, the veteran navigates a quagmire of Army and city offices in search of help. But when Noel reveals his plight to the media, his moving story takes an unexpected turn. The film premiered at the 2006 Tribeca Film Festival.

Iraq War Documentaries

- Inside Iraq: The Untold Stories

In 2003, ordinary American citizen Mike Shiley created his own press pass and cashed in airline miles to fly to Iraq. Unofficially there to document the nascent war for a Portland TV station, Shiley took his camera to the front lines, where he showed a side of the conflict the media and the military ignored.

Trailer- www.insideiraqthemovie.com

- Iraq for Sale: The War Profiteers

Private contractors are getting rich while everybody else is suffering: This is the point director Robert Greenwald makes -- passionately -- in this 2006 documentary. Using whistleblower testimony, firsthand accounts, financial records and classified documents, Greenwald levels charges of greed, corruption and incompetence against private contractors and shows the subsequent devastating effect on Americans and Iraqis.

Book List

Introduction: These are books I've read and would recommend to anyone wanting to learn more about combat, war, combat stress and trauma. I also included 1st hand narratives from troops who had their boots on the ground. Reading some of the first hand accounts can help you understand what our soldiers have to face. These are secondary sources and will never take the place of being in combat first hand. I have met distinguished authors Paul Rieckhoff "Chasing Ghosts: Failures and Facades in Iraq: A Soldier's Perspective", and Nathaniel Fick "One Bullet Away". In my journey I've met author Ilona Meagher, "Moving a Nation to Care" through online groups that support our troops. They all take pride in helping Veterans and have published outstanding books.

Starting Place: These two books will guide you through the process of how soldiers prepare for war and combat. Also, includes how they cope and live with the experiences they have gone through. This book is a good start for returning Veterans or civilians.

- On Killing: The Psychological Cost of Learning to Kill in War and Society (Paperback)
  - On Combat The Psychology and Physiology of Deadly Conflict in War and in Peace (Paperback)
- Both by Lt. Col. Dave Grossman (Author)

Finding Meaning and Happiness: The first book here by Viktor Frankl is one of my favorite books I've read. It helped me choose my undergrad major (psychology) and eventually my degree. It shows that no matter what situations we face, we can always find meaning in our lives. The second book is about Positive Psychology a relatively new field in psychology but a great book that can help you find positive aspects in your life.

- Man's Search for Meaning (Paperback)
by Viktor E. Frankl (Author)
- Authentic Happiness: Using the New Positive Psychology to Realize Your Potential for Lasting Fulfillment (Paperback)
by Martin Seligman (Author)

Books related to Combat Stress:

- War and the Soul: Healing Our Nation's Veterans from Post-traumatic Stress Disorder (Paperback)
by Edward Tick (Author),
- Moving a Nation to Care: Post Traumatic Stress Disorder and America's Returning Troops (Paperback)
by Ilona Meagher (Author)
- Flashback: Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, Suicide, and the Lessons of War (Paperback)
by Penny Coleman (Author)
- Courage After Fire: Coping Strategies for Troops Returning from Iraq and Afghanistan and Their Families (Paperback)
by Keith Armstrong (Author), Suzanne Best (Author), Paula Domenici (Author)
- Down Range: To Iraq and Back (Paperback)
by Bridget C., Ph.D. Cantrell (Author), Chuck Dean (Author)

- An Operators Manual for Combat PTSD: Essays for Coping (Paperback)
by Ashley B., II Hart (Author)

Book more for clinicians/PTSD in general:

- Treating Psychological Trauma and PTSD (Paperback)
by John P. Wilson (Editor), Matthew J. Friedman (Editor), Jacob D. Lindy (Editor)

Alcohol Overview: This book will give you insight about alcoholism and how damaging it is to the body. A good read for veteran who is struggling to cope with combat stressors, PTSD, by using alcohol. It shows you how to try and fix the problems, used it in college for a class, would recommend it.

- The Alcohol Troubled Person: Known and Unknown (Paperback)
by Alan Willoughby (Author)

Straight from the Troops/First Hand Accounts:

- Chasing Ghosts: Failures and Facades in Iraq: A Soldier's Perspective (Paperback)

Rhode Island Resources

Operation Stand Down

Founded in 1988 in 35 states, Operation Stand Down is a national coalition of concerned Americans who have dedicated themselves to eliminating homelessness among our nation's Veterans. In 1993 "Stand Down" (meaning at ease) Rhode Island initiated an annual three day residential program to assist area homeless veterans to secure social, medical, legal, and housing assistance. No homeless veteran is turned away. We either provide emergency housing or pay for the Veteran to live in a motel or boarding home. "A Hand up, not a Handout" is the motto that guides us in our work with Veterans. We realized that Veterans needed more assistance so we established permanent housing for eight Veterans in Johnston, RI in 2001. An additional home was opened in 2005 in West Warwick. We are currently working towards opening homes in other areas.
